

Negative port numbers or null usernames result in runtime errors. However, we can prevent this by checking the input before using those variables in their classes in further implementation.